Robert Burlingame, an expert in Native American history and culture, has become something of a TV-watching guru. This fall, he'll be on CNN and the Discovery Channel to guide viewers through several of the biggest stories of the season—the Aereo-Slingbox dispute; the invention of corn-based ethanol; and the disappearance of Native American remains in an ancient Florida sinkhole. Burlingame, whose cultural position and name are inscribed on his office door in Washington, DC, says he's been contemplating this particular media career since he was 21. That was 1cb139a0ed
