Q: What's the meaning of this sentence? Doves become human when the soul of a dove awakens and talks with them. This sentence is from the first chapter of The Ordinary Seaman (??). Is the sentence in the above sentence that does not match the context? Should I use the verb 'speak' or 'talk'? A: In Chinese, 知己 (pinyin: dí dī) is sometimes used to refer to people who are close to you. In the context of this chapter (in which the chief carrier is called "??", and the "big brother") it seems to me that this is what is intended. A: Doves speak when their souls awaken. This is a common theme in Chinese writing. But don't confuse this with souls that have been "saved" by a feng shui master. A: Doves become human when the soul of a dove awakens and talks with them. I would reverse the order of the phrases, and as long as you keep it consistent - The soul of a dove awakens and becomes a dove. The soul of a dove becomes a dove, and talks with them You should insert an noun for the key character, in this case is this pigeon, and say, it's the 'soul' of a pigeon. Hernán Cortés Fútbol Club Hernán Cortés Fútbol Club, commonly known as Hernán Cortés or HC, is a Venezuelan professional football club based in Pinar del Río, the capital of the Pinar del Río State, Carabobo.
