to show others that I care for them I believe this is in the way you show someone that you love them. When I tell my family and friends I love them, I generally lead with the infinitive verb (to love) and say a few generic adjectives like grateful, happy, satisfied, etc. I think they get the idea. This is how it feels to me when I say it... "I love you, here is what I've done for you, what are you doing for me?" I'm curious, how do you show your love to those around you? Do you use less generic adjectives and more specific nouns? Here are some examples of what I mean... I always help others. When I put myself out there, I do it with grace. I think everyday is a gift, and I make it a point to appreciate my loved ones and coworkers. A: I usually do what the others do: I'm grateful. I'm thankful. I'm happy. I'm optimistic. I'm loving. And I'm concerned. A: Here's the way I do it - love 'is' a verb. I my family. (as in "I love my family.") in
